Call for Workshops
ACM CoNEXT 2016, to be held in Irvine, California, USA, is soliciting proposals for one-day workshops to be co-located with the main conference. The workshops are considered an integral part of the conference and will be fully incorporated into its logistical and budget planning process. Workshop papers will be published in the same set of proceedings as the conference, and available on the ACM Digital Library.

The workshops should be on original and timely topics of relevance to the CoNEXT community, and aimed at fostering lively discussions and technical exchanges among participants. Workshop proposals sent in response to this open call should include the following material:

- A draft call for papers, including names and affiliations of workshop chairs and a tentative list of TPC members (as complete as possible)
- A brief statement of interest including a description and rationale for the workshop topic and its relevance to the CoNEXT community, as well as a comparison with existing workshops on related topics, if applicable
- An expected number of submissions, accepted papers, and attendees (if known)
- A description of any past instances of the proposed workshop, including number of submissions, accepted papers, and attendees

Proposals should be submitted as ASCII text or PDF files only, via email conext-workshop-chairs-2016@ccs.neu.edu. The workshop selection will be made by the workshop chairs in consultation with the general chairs and the steering committee.
